MAY 2019

Congratulations to all the nominees and award winners of this year's ASA Mad Hatters Awards Gala. Thank you to The Gala Chairs and their committee, and Susan Winkelmann, for a very successful event. We had a record number of attendees, 422 to be exact, thank you to everyone who came to celebrate with us. Congratulations to the GC winners who joined us at our April 24th dinner meeting. BSI Constructors, BEX Construction Services, and Kozeny-Wagner. Special recognition to our friends at George McDonnell & Sons, who were this year's award winners. There is a full list of all our winners in this newsletter!

PLEASE JOIN US! I am super excited that the first Women's Council Happy Hour will take place May 23, 2019 from 4-6 at Rosalita's Des Peres location. This is a free event open to everyone, women and men! The ASA Women's Council is a women's only peer group and our main purpose for the group is to:

- *Become a valuable resource for women in the construction industry.
- *Help women "Build Community" with other women.
- *Be a source for resources needed to build relationships.
- *Provide information and support to women in the industry.
- *Connect women in construction through networking & education events.

I would like to take this time to urge everyone with Cardinal tickets to donate them to our Tickets for the Troops campaign this year. We are looking for tickets throughout the month of July, all tickets will be donated to members of the US Armed Forces through the USO of Missouri. This program allows the families of military men and women to have a great time at the ball game. Since 2009, The Tickets for the Troops campaign has collected over 2700 tickets, valued at over $192,000. If you would rather donate money, we will purchase tickets for you. Please call Tom McDonnell, with George McDonnell & Sons at (314)581-1681 or ASA executive director, Susan Winkelmann at (314)845-0855, if you have tickets to donate, or would like to make a monetary donation to the 2019 ticket campaign.

I cannot believe that I am in the last stage of my Presidency. Two months left to go, and we've made some great progress, in my humble opinion. To date, we have started our ASA Women's Council, became engaged in the Building Careers initiative, and we are revamping the ASA Affinity Program, beginning with appointing new co-chairs, Dianne Gibbs with ideas4promos and Marty Hooper with Common Sense Solutions. We have also done a complete overhaul on our safety committee, and our safety co-chairs, Rose Kastrup and Steve Williams are doing an amazing job.

PLEASE make plans to attend the FREE Construction Showcase & BBQ on May 15th at Queeny Park. The event is from 2-7 p.m., is a one stop shop for all the latest and greatest in the STL construction industry, and includes a wide variety of exhibitors, including General Contractors, Subcontractors, suppliers, and vendors. Just like every year, the event includes FREE FOOD & DRINKS and a very exciting BBQ Contest. I look forward to seeing you there! Jennifer Church, United Rentals| President, ASA Midwest Council | jchurch@ur.com

Have you ever heard General Colin Powell speak at a conference? He truly is an American hero and a great leader. Recently, I was privileged to hear him speak in Washington, DC at the American Hospital Association Conference. I'm a volunteer member of the Rankin Jordan Pediatric Bridge Hospital Board and was in DC for that conference. Colin Powell told many stories. None more important than how he learned as a young lieutenant that he needed to be of service to the men and women serving underneath him. He became a good leader. He said; "In order to lead you must serve your followers." Early on, he learned that he must pay attention to the needs of the men and women, the privates, corporals, and sergeants serving underneath him. For if he took care of them, they would serve him and the country well. In our own companies, we need to make sure we take care of the needs and safety of the men and women working for us. They are the ones who get things done, who build our companies and profits.

As leaders we also have a social responsibility to serve our community. For that reason, not only getting involved in groups like ASA, but also get involved in other nonprofit groups that serve the community as well. There are hundreds probably more like thousands of them needing your help and service.

Lastly, by serving on those boards and volunteering in community service in whatever way you desire. This also expands your networking circle. You never know where your next job may come from, so expanding your networking circle will increase the number of quality leads that will come your way. And the best part of this, is that they will be quality leads. And probably not the kind of lead where you are bidding against dozens of other competitors.

I recently, spoke to a group of volunteers for Rankin Jordan Hospital at their volunteer appreciation dinner that was held to honor their service. Later, after the meeting one of the volunteers approached me, and basically handed me a nice job. While this is not the reason you should serve as a volunteer, you will get opportunities like this one over time. Please don't go in looking for those opportunities. Let them present themselves. I think this works especially well in the St. Louis community. Let's not forget about the good that volunteers do for the association or agency for which they are volunteering. Thank you for your service and leadership in the community. As ASA members, I believe we have a lot of good leaders and people who serve the community and their own employees well.

ASA MEMBERS WE NEED YOU!

The end of April means that the final weeks of the legislative session are just around the corner. The 2019 legislative session ends on May 17. To date there has been very few pieces of legislation that has made it across the finish line, including many of the Governor's priorities. We expect to see a flurry of legislative activity these final couple weeks of the legislative session.

As far as ASA priorities, legislation to fix the Brentwood Glass Supreme Court decision is making its way through the General Assembly. Senate Bill 167, sponsored by Senator Sandy Crawford, seeks to remedy a situation created by the court decision, where a subcontractor or supplier had no recourse for non-payment on public works contracts for non-governmental purposes.

After months of negotiations between ASA, bond writers, the Surety Association and general contractors, the legislation is in a good position and stands a good chance of getting across the finish line. The bill has been approved by the Senate and appears poised for approval in the House of Representatives. There were some minor changes made to the bill in the House which means the bill will have to go back to the Senate for a final vote. Since all parties to the bill have agreed with the changes, we don't anticipate any issues getting the Senate to agree with the changes made.

Highway funding is another item of interest that continues to be discussion point in the General Assembly. Early in the year, Governor Mike Parson had outlined his vision for a $351 million bonding proposal for bridge repair and replacement throughout the state. Since that time, Legislative leaders have put forth their own ideas. House budget writers have committed to placing $100 million of general revenue dollars into bridge repair for the 2020 fiscal year, with promises of continuing that funding level for the next four years. Meanwhile, the Senate spent long hours debating their own plan, Senate Joint Resolution 14. The measure was brought before the Senate on the afternoon of April 9, with debate lasting until 2:30 the following morning. In the end, Senators agreed to a plan calling for $301 million in general obligation bonds, to be paid back over seven years. The final Senate vote was cast several days later, with the measure passing by a 26-7 margin. Governor Parson paid close attention to the Senate agreement stating, "We are thrilled to see the Senate take significant action today on our shared priority of infrastructure. Today's strong bipartisan vote is a result of focused efforts by the legislature as we work together on an infrastructure plan to move Missouri forward". Differences between the House and Senate plans must still be reconciled, with House Budget Chair Cody Smith stating the Senate action is a "step in the right direction".

Several other proposals to address highway funding are in various stages of debate, including increases in fuel taxes, but none are poised to cross the finish line at this point.

In other legislative news, the General Assembly continues debate on the merits of a state sales tax on certain internet sales. Several versions of the legislation are in various stages of debate in the Capitol, but they all have met some form of resistance. Sponsors point to the fact that businesses having a physical presence in the state face unfair competition from out-of-state vendors who sell their goods on-line and are not required to remit sales taxes. Also mentioned is the fact that state revenues are lagging this year and the dollars provided by internet sales taxes could help fill that void should the trend continue in coming years. More than half the states have passed legislation to collect internet sales taxes with several more considering doing so.

We will continue to keep you updated on issues and happenings in Jefferson City that impact ASA and the construction industry. Nikki Strong, Strong Consultants.

Preventing Injuries and Opioid Use Disorder Among Construction Workers Webinar

Please join: RedVector Convergence Training, Moldex, Sphera, Honeywell Industrial Safety and Occupational Health & Safety for this complimentary webinar on May 2nd!

<https://ohsonline.com/webcasts/2019/03/preventing-injuries-and-opioid-use-disorder-among-construction-workers.aspx?admgarea=webinars&tc=page0>

Date: Thursday, May 2, 2019

Time: 1:00 PM (CT)

Overview:

Construction workers face numerous hazards on the job -- hazards such as high noise levels, musculoskeletal injuries, mobile equipment, and falls.

Our webinar will discuss the percentages of contractors using best practices to prevent these injuries -- such as by requiring the use of hearing protection PPE and buying low-noise equipment, employing assistive lifting and other devices, and mandating use of personal fall arrest systems -- based on recent surveys by CPWR-The Center for Construction Research and Training and Dodge Data & Analytics.

CPWR also is very involved in the awareness campaign by North America's Building Trades Union about addiction among construction workers. The webinar will describe the extent of the problem in construction and focus on efforts to prevent injuries that lead to prescriptions of pain killers and also a program focused on reducing manual material handling.

Training Requirements for Workplace Safety

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, employers are responsible for providing a safe and healthful workplace. No person should ever have to be injured, become ill, or die for a paycheck.

OSHA's mission is to ensure the protection of workers and prevent work-related injuries, illnesses, and deaths by setting and enforcing standards, and by providing training, outreach, education and assistance. Many OSHA standards, which have prevented countless workplace tragedies, include explicit safety and health training requirements to ensure that workers have the required skills and knowledge to safely do their work. These requirements reflect OSHA's belief that training is an essential part of every employer's safety and health program for protecting workers from injuries and illnesses.

Researchers conclude that those who are new on the job have a higher rate of injuries and illnesses than more experienced workers.

To assist employers, safety and health professionals, training directors and others with a need to know, OSHA's training-related requirements have been excerpted and collected in this updated booklet.

Requirements for posting information, warning signs, labels, and the like are excluded, as are most references to the qualifications of people assigned to test workplace conditions or equipment.

Training in the safe way for workers to do their jobs well is an investment that will pay back over and over again in fewer injuries and illnesses, better morale, lower insurance premiums and more.

It is a good idea to keep a record of all safety and health training. Documentation can also supply an answer to one of the first questions an incident investigator will ask: "Did the employee receive adequate training to do the job?"
